The Road No Longer Taken

New roads get you from one place to another quickly and safely. Bridges and Tunnels straighten the roadway and promise a quicker transit from points A to B. That is what a new road does. Then the old road becomes the road no longer taken.

Sometimes it is worthwhile to walk the road no longer taken. The sounds and the sights are more easily experienced at the slower pace. There is time to appreciate the totality of the scenery and the wonder of what is there. The goal no longer becomes transit, but the experience; for as the sages tell us, the journey is the experience.

Joe Lipka has shared his vision since he began photographing.

In the last thirty years, his photographs have appeared in over one hundred juried exhibitions, more than twenty solo exhibitions and have been printed in both LensWork and Black & White Photography (UK) Magazines.

His website www.joelipkaphoto.com has continuously evolved since it was launched in 2004. His blog Postcards from the Creative Journey, published weekly since 2010, feature a photograph and a (very) short story.
